Social Work

Global Status of Social Work

Across the world, social work practice and social work education are global endeavours. Social work is an international discipline, practiced in these areas: child and family welfare; health care; mental health services; substance addiction rehabilitation; offending and prison services; anti-violence and abuse; advocacy for human rights and social justice; social planning and policy; and social research and education.

Ratio of Social Workers to Citizens

The chart below represents the ratio of social workers to the number of citizens in the specific country:

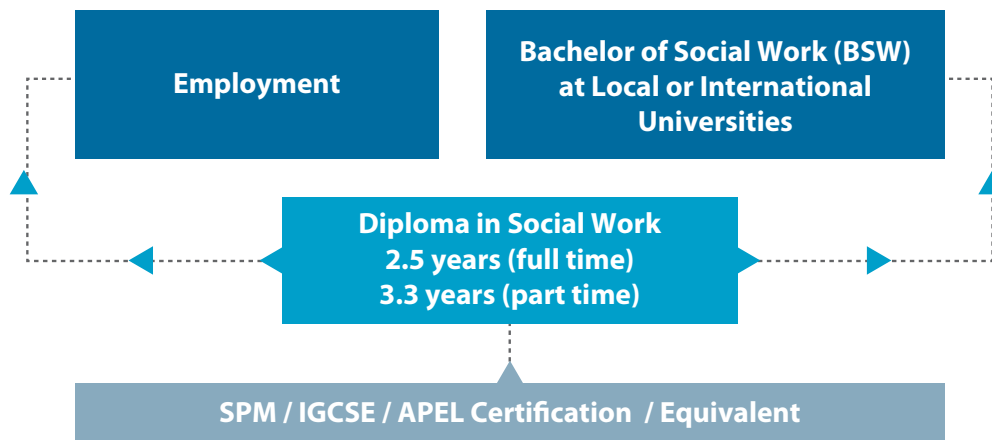

With good advocacy, support and recognition of this area, social work experts believe Malaysia aims to narrow this gap in the next five years.

Diploma in Social Work

KPT/JPS(R/762/4/0025)(MQA/FA8500)09/28

Social work practice requires diverse learning across a wide range of multi-discipline knowledge areas. The programme incorporates practice and procedural knowledge in key areas of practice, such as child and family welfare, health and mental health, drug and alcohol addictions, domestic violence and disabilities.

This programme is designed with reference to the National Competency Standards for Social Work Practice (2010), where standard areas are identified at a specific level to prepare diploma students and working adults to acquire in-depth knowledge of human behavior within the context of family, community and society. It offers students courses that emphasise ethical values and conduct, contribute toward self-development, and build psychosocial skills.

Upon successful completion of this programme, students will have the experience and ability to empower individuals, families, groups, communities and organisations to enhance social functioning and quality of life. They will be part of a dynamic practice that promotes universal values and ethical principles of human rights and social justice. Their work will involve an accountable process of problem-solving based on theories and indigenous knowledge, values, intervention skills and compliance to competency standards of practice.

TESTIMONIALS

Jacqueline Yap Siew Peng

Diploma in Social Work, MCKL
Strategy Coordinator/ Social Worker, STAMP BHD

● ●

The whole academic and practicum of this course has been carefully crafted to give a holistic insight into the social work worldview. It covers as many subjects as possible to give us an overall core of what social work is all about. The two internship exposures were tremendously priceless as well. It is not only about getting more knowledge, values and skills, but also the ability to translate what we learned into our workplace.

When I received the news that MCKL is offering a Diploma in Social Work, I looked at the syllabus and saw it was well-rounded. It covered most aspects of social work – psychology, sociology, law and policy, and working with the target community (internships). It also fit my criteria of not having to take a break from my work commitment because the classes were during the weekends.

Yayasan Kajian dan Pembangunan Masyarakat (YKPM)

YKPM, also known as Foundation for Community Studies and Development (FOCUSED), was founded in 1993 to empower poor communities, both rural and urban, by working alongside them.

Elsie Lee

Course Advisor, MCKL

Students who join MCKL's Diploma in Social Work programme, come from a wide age range of 19-55 years old; hence, anybody can take up social work. The important thing is to get the right kind of knowledge, information and skills to work professionally, logically and rationally without getting burned out. It is important for young people to come in the proper way, through a certified programme.

Datuk Dr. Denison Jayasoria

Co-Founder of DSW programme, MCKL

The social needs and issues in Malaysia require workers who have clear understanding of human and community needs, social work and counselling skills, in-depth knowledge on abuse and addressing needs. There have been cases where the volunteer role has resulted in further psychological damage on victims or the volunteers have physically and sexually abused victims. Therefore, there is a need to better equip the volunteers and staff with knowledge, skills, competencies and values, including a commitment to ethical practices.

Since its establishment in 1983, the College has gained a reputation of providing quality private education in the best of Methodist traditions. The educational experience is underpinned by core values, ethical standards and community involvement. Experienced lecturers teach classes and they give personal attention to their students. The College also provides student counselling (personal and academic), including making career choices and support for university applications.
